4 CPA review courses for college credit.

The courses are taught online and are ideal for people preparing for sitting for the CPA exams. There are some schools around that offer similar offerings, but they don't offer academic credit. The materials that UMC delivers online are from a company that specializes in accounting, Gleim CPA Review and therefore keeps current with all the laws and policy changes. In addition to current and past UMC students, these courses should be marketed to any accountant that wants to earn a CPA especially those students who partner through our 2-year articulated programs.
